18 U.S.C. § 1962(d) – *RICO Conspiracy

Background

At all times relevant to the Indictment:

1. The Bandidos Outlaw Motorcycle Organization (hereinafter referred to as the “Bandidos OMO”) was an “outlaw” motorcycle organization comprised of individual chapters located in various cities in Texas, and elsewhere.

2. The Bandidos OMO is an international organization. The Bandidos OMO has approximately 175 or more chapters in fifteen countries on four continents, with approximately 107 chapters in the United States, including approximately 42 chapters in Texas. The Bandidos OMO membership is estimated at between 1,500 and 2,000 members. The National and International President, Jeffrey Fay Pike, resides in Conroe, Montgomery County, Texas. The National and International Vice President, John Xavier Portillo, resides in San Antonio, Bexar County, Texas.

3. The Bandidos OMO in the United States is a highly organized criminal organization which adheres to a hierarchical chain of command both nationally and locally. National officers are the most powerful and influential members of the enterprise. National officers comprise the National Chapter and include the President, Vice President, Secretary, Treasurer, and Sergeant at Arms. In addition to the National Chapter is a Nomad Chapter, which is located throughout the United States. The Nomad Chapter is involved in gathering intelligence for the Bandidos OMO and meeting with the National officers to provide information that relates to the enterprise. Local chapters are divided up according to geographic location. Each local chapter must have at least five members to exist and has to be approved by the National Chapter to be established. The enterprise is operated through a strict chain of command. Each Bandidos OMO Chapter has a President, a Vice-President, a Secretary and/or Treasurer, and a Sergeant at Arms, along with members. Each officer has specific obligations to the enterprise and each is responsible for maintaining records and providing information or security for the chapter.

4. The local Chapter Presidents report directly to the National Sergeant at Arms for the region or to other National officers in the region. In San Antonio, local Chapter Presidents can report to the National Vice President, John Xavier Portillo. If the local Chapter President reports to a National officer, that officer reports to the National Vice President. The Nomad Chapter reports directly to the National Vice President as well. The National Vice President reports to the National President.

5. The National Vice President serves as a point of contact for the other 1% motorcycle gangs to discuss territorial issues. The National Vice President also approves or disapproves the existence of each support club, along with the patches worn by support clubs. Each local chapter President is responsible for support clubs that affiliate with the Bandidos OMO as well as the American Motorcycle Association clubs operating in the same geographical area. Some support clubs wear the reverse color scheme patch (yellow letters on a red background) to show their allegiance to the Bandidos OMO. These support clubs are also referred to as "farm clubs" because this is the recruiting pool for the Bandidos OMO to pick individuals to prospect and become members of the Bandidos OMO.

6. The President is the highest-ranking officer in each chapter. Each President is responsible for holding regular chapter meetings, also known as "church". Presidents are required to attend regularly-held national Presidents' meetings and also the mandatory Bandidos OMO "runs" (i.e., when members wear their "colors" and travel in groups on their motorcycles to a meeting location). The Sergeant at Arms of each chapter is in charge of security and enforcement activities related to the chapter. The Secretary and/or Treasurer for the chapter is responsible for keeping current contact information for all their members as well as for all the other secretaries/treasurers so that information can be disseminated, maintaining the patches of retired Bandidos OMO members, maintaining records of bank accounts and club funds, collecting fines, collecting dues, and collecting "donations" from support clubs and paying the monies to the National Secretary. Each Bandidos OMO member is required to attend meetings, runs, and pay chapter and national dues. Each member is also required to pay a fine of up to $1,000 if a mandatory run is missed and is obligated to pledge their motorcycle and title to the enterprise.

7. The Bandidos OMO is a closed society. Allegiance to this organization and their fellow brothers is valued above all else. Witnesses to their criminal acts are typically the victims of acts of intimidation or harassment and are too afraid to approach law enforcement or testify in court proceedings. Bandidos OMO members do not fear authority and have a complete disdain for the rules of society. The Bandidos OMO is very careful about admitting individuals into the enterprise. There is a lengthy process before one can become a "full patch" member, as defined below. This process is designed to guard against law enforcement infiltration into the enterprise. First, the prospective member is allowed to associate with enterprise members. After a period of time they are identified as a "hangaround" and obligated to do menial tasks for full club members. The next phase is that the person becomes a "prospect" which requires being sponsored by a full patch member. The club members then vote on whether the "prospect" can become a full patch member.

8. Full patch members are required to own a Harley Davidson motorcycle or facsimile and wear clothing with patches that symbolize the club. These patches are commonly known as club "colors." The color scheme for the Bandidos OMO patch utilizes red letters on a gold (yellow) background. The colors consist of an upper patch (top rocker patch) that identifies the Bandidos OMO name, a center patch which contains the emblem of the club, and a bottom patch (bottom rocker patch) which is representative of the State in which the members' chapter is located, or in the case of the National Officers, the United States patch or the title of their office. Full patch members also wear a diamond-shaped "1%" patch. The "1%" symbol is derived from an apocryphal statement that 99% of the country's motorcyclists are law-abiding individuals. The "1%" symbol has become the symbol of the outlaw biker. Members who wear their Bandidos OMO "colors" do so with the authority of the Bandidos OMO. Members are required to wear their "colors" when riding their motorcycles and when attending a National Run or Bandidos OMO events. When attending a National Run, and at other times, some Bandidos OMO members travel with Bandidos OMO merchandise to sell at the destination. Only Bandidos OMO members and close associates with permission can sell Bandidos OMO merchandise, and a portion of the sales is funneled back to the enterprise.

9. Bandidos OMO members, prospects, and members of support clubs are required to pay dues on a monthly basis. A portion of these dues are forwarded to the national leadership. Support club dues are often referred to as "donations." Taxes are assessed on individual members at various times, with the proceeds also being funneled up the Bandidos OMO chain to the national leadership. The dues and taxes help fund the continued operation of the enterprise and are used for a variety of purposes, including the payment of expenses to the national leadership, covering funeral expenses of members, contributing to a legal defense fund for members, and paying costs associated with planned trips or “runs.” The enterprise also raises funds for its activities and legal defense through unlawful gambling activities, namely raffles.

The Enterprise

10. At all times relevant and material to this Indictment, in the Western District of Texas and elsewhere, the “Bandidos Outlaw Motorcycle Organization,” including its leadership, members and associates, constituted an enterprise, as defined by Title 18, United States Code, Section 1961(4), that is, a group of individuals associated in fact, which engaged in, and the activities of which affected, interstate and foreign commerce. The enterprise constituted an ongoing organization whose members functioned as a continuing unit for the common purpose of achieving the objectives of the enterprise.

Purpose of the Enterprise

11. The objectives and purposes of the Bandidos OMO enterprise included the following:

- a. Preserving, protecting and enhancing the power, territory, reputation and profits of the enterprise through the use of intimidation, violence, threats of violence, assaults, murder, attempted murder and robbery against rival motorcycle organizations;
- b. Promoting and enhancing the enterprise and its members’ and associates’ activities, including, but not limited to, robberies, including robbery of property of rival motorcycle organizations, and other criminal activities;
- c. Making money for the enterprise through, among other things, extorting money from other motorcycle organizations through fear and threats of violence, drug trafficking, and illegal gambling activities;
- d. Maximizing profits for enterprise leaders and members from a variety of illegal activity;

e. Keeping victims, potential victims, potential informants and witnesses, and the public-at-large in fear of the enterprise, and in fear of its members and associates, through extortion, intimidation, violence and threats of violence.

Manner and Means of the Enterprise

12. The manner and means used by the enterprise to further the goals of the enterprise and achieve its purposes, included, but was not limited to, the following:

a. The leaders of the enterprise directed, sanctioned, approved and permitted other members of the enterprise to carry out acts in furtherance of the enterprise.

b. Members of the enterprise and their associates committed, conspired to commit, and threatened to commit acts of violence, including murder, attempted murder, assault, intimidation and extortion to protect the enterprise's power, territory and property.

c. Members of the enterprise and their associates promoted a climate of fear through intimidation, violence, and threats of violence.

d. Members of the enterprise and their associates used and threatened to use physical violence against various individuals, including rival motorcycle organization members.

e. Members of the enterprise and their associates committed, and conspired to commit, extortion and robberies, including robbery of property of rival motorcycle organizations and stealing items of value, the proceeds of which were used to benefit the enterprise and its members;

f. Members of the enterprise and their associates were financially enriched through extortion and illegal gambling activities, namely raffles.

g. Members of the enterprise and their associates were financially enriched through the distribution of controlled substances, namely methamphetamine.

h. Members of the enterprise and their associates extorted other motorcycle organizations to pay money to the Bandidos OMO, upon fear and threat of violence;

i. Members of the enterprise and their associates traveled in interstate commerce, and used facilities in interstate commerce, to further the goals of the enterprise and achieve its purposes, including acts of violence and extortion.

j. Members of the enterprise talked in code when communicating over the telephone to avoid law enforcement detection, and communication in person was always preferable.

k. Members of the enterprise and their associates were forbidden from cooperating with law enforcement. Attorney's fees were paid for by the enterprise when members were arrested for club-related business and to ensure silence was maintained. Legal paperwork was reviewed for signs of cooperation.

Roles of Defendants

13. In addition to being members of the enterprise, the defendants served in various roles within the enterprise, including the following:

a. JOHN XAVIER PORTILLO was the National Vice President for the Bandidos OMO. During a period of the conspiracy, from approximately May 2015 until August 26, 2015, Portillo served as the acting National President of the Bandidos OMO while Jeffrey Pike recovered from surgery. When Pike was healthy enough to ride a motorcycle again, Pike reassumed the Presidency and Portillo returned to Vice President. In his role as the National Vice President of the Bandidos OMO, and during his tenure as the acting National President, Portillo had ultimate decision-making authority for the activities of the Bandidos OMO. While each individual chapter has a president, Portillo is apprised of and involved in significant decisions that affect the enterprise and its goals, particularly its criminal activities. These decisions include directing, sanctioning, approving, and permitting other members to negotiate with members of competing motorcycle clubs to protect the interests of the Bandidos OMO, to discourage and prevent prospective witnesses from providing information to law enforcement about the Bandidos OMO, and directing, sanctioning, approving and permitting other members to engage in criminal activities including murder and assault related to the protection of the power and territory of the enterprise. Portillo is responsible for apprising National President Jeffrey Pike of the activities of the Bandidos OMO, but Portillo retains much of the day-to-day decision-making authority.

b. JEFFREY FAY PIKE was the National President of the Bandidos OMO. During a period of the conspiracy, from approximately May 2015 until August 26, 2015, John Portillo served as the acting National President of the Bandidos while Pike recovered from surgery. When Pike was healthy enough to ride a motorcycle again, Pike reassumed the Presidency and Portillo returned to Vice President. In his role as National President, Pike has ultimate decision-making authority for the activities of the Bandidos OMO. Pike is briefed directly by Portillo, who deals with more day-to-day decisions. Pike is involved in significant decisions that affect the Enterprise and its goals, particularly its criminal activities. These decisions include sanctioning, approving and permitting other members to engage in criminal activities including murder and assault related to the protection of the power and territory of the enterprise.

c. JUSTIN COLE FORSTER was a National Sergeant at Arms of the Bandidos OMO. Forster reports directly to Portillo and is one of Portillo's most trusted associates in the enterprise. Forster is allowed to exert significant decision-making power and control over the activities of Bandidos OMO members in the Texas area. He is responsible for the enforcement of club rules, carrying out disciplinary actions against club members who violate club rules, extortion of members who leave the club, and carrying out directives from Portillo. By virtue of his position within the club, Forster is allowed to engage in distribution of controlled substances and extortion of support club members for his personal benefit.

(2) On November 2, 2013, a group of approximately 10 Bandidos OMO members and their associates confronted members of the Cossacks OMO in Abilene, Texas. After taking the whips off of the parked motorcycles owned by Cossacks OMO members, Bandidos OMO members and associates began assaulting Cossacks OMO members, including stabbing some Cossacks OMO members with knives, resulting in serious injuries to Cossacks OMO members T.S., E.C., J.W., and T.B.

(3) On or about November 2, 2013, after concluding the assault on Cossacks OMO members in Abilene, Texas, the Bandidos OMO Abilene, Texas Chapter President threatened Cossacks OMO members by stating, "This is our town. If you come back I will kill you," in furtherance of John Portillo's declaration of war against the Cossacks OMO and the protection of Bandidos OMO territory.

(4) On or about August 8, 2014, Bandidos OMO Nomad Chapter members were dispatched to the Fort Worth, Texas area to conduct surveillance on Cossacks OMO members in the area. Photos of Cossack OMO members were taken to help Bandidos OMO member properly identify them.

(6) On or about December 11, 2014, Bandidos OMO members entered Red's Take 5 Sports Bar, a known Cossacks OMO hangout in Wise County, Texas looking for Cossacks OMO members. When no Cossacks OMO members were present as expected, Bandidos OMO members left the bar, posting a "Bandidos" sticker on the bar door.

(7) On or about December 12, 2014, Bandidos OMO members entered the Gators Jam Inn in Fort Worth, Texas, where members of the Cossacks OMO, Ghost Riders OMO and Winos OMO were conducting a meeting. (8) On a date unknown, but prior to March 3, 2015, John Portillo asked Jeffrey Pike to "turn his back from what I'm gonna do," in an attempt to shield Pike from criminal responsibility when referencing his intended orders regarding the war with the Cossacks OMO.

(9) On March 3, 2015, John Portillo again declared that the Bandidos OMO was "at war" with the Cossacks OMO. Portillo indicated he "wants that Texas rocker back," referencing the "Texas" bottom rocker worn by Cossacks OMO members without Bandidos OMO permission.

The Bandidos OMO members demanded A.Y. give them his vest displaying a “Texas” bottom rocker. After A.Y. refused, the Bandidos OMO members and associates assaulted A.Y., including striking A.Y. in the head multiple times with a claw hammer, causing serious injury. A.Y.’s vest was then forcibly removed from his body and taken, along with his telephone. The Bandidos OMO members and associates were returning from the Tyler, Texas “birthday run.”
